

Kilparrin Teaching and Assessment School and Services Grievances and Complaints Resolution Policy For the Kilparrin School Community

INTRODUCTION

Kilparrin Teaching and Assessment School and Services (Kilparrin) staff support the Code of Ethics for the South Australian Public Sector (2015) as the basis for all professional and personal interactions within the workplace and school community.

Kilparrin supports the right of any member of the school community who believes our school policies are not being supported or enforced appropriately to have their grievances and/or complaints addressed.

The Complaint Resolution for Employees Policy (2007) aims to provide fair and consistent treatment to employees involved in complaint resolution and to achieve successful resolution at the local level wherever possible.

The parent complaints policy and procedures provides parents and staff with an overarching policy framework, supported by detailed procedural information, for managing concerns and complaints made by parents of children and young people attending DECD preschools and schools.

This process is specifically supported by the following DECD documents:

- Feedback and complaints about a school or preschool

<https://www.decd.sa.gov.au/department/about-department/contact-department/feedback-and-complaints-about-school-or-preschool>

- “Raising a complaint with DECD” brochure

FOR DECD EMPLOYEES

What is a grievance?

‘Grievances are often the result of unresolved issues, problems, or conflicts that have been avoided or not addressed to the satisfaction of those involved. Examples include a person:

- feeling they have been unfairly treated by others;
- being excluded or experiencing discrimination;
- being the butt of a colleague’s continual jokes and/or taunted in a way that they find offensive;
- fearing that decisions or processes in their group are unethical, or even illegal;
- feeling afraid to complain about something because they fear the consequences from another person;
- feeling that a decision that directly affects them doesn’t take into consideration all of the facts, and that their issues or concerns haven’t been heard.’ (Guide to Resolving Grievances and Complaints for DECS Employees, 2007, page 2)

What is a complaint?

‘A complaint is a notice to DECS that an employee is protesting against what she/he perceives to be an inappropriate, unfair or offensive act against her/him by another employee, and that intervention by DECS is requested or necessary. Formalising a protest against someone in this way is a serious step.’ (Guide to Resolving Grievances and Complaints for DECS Employees, 2007, page 6)

What does the DECD policy say about dealing with grievances raised by employees?

'In the first instance, resolution of issues through personal actions at the local level is encouraged. Where employees feel that an action is unreasonable, unfair or has an unduly negative impact on an individual or group, they should take up their concerns directly with the people involved where possible. Early action at this level generally provides the best opportunity for positive resolution.' (Guide to Resolving Grievances and Complaints for DECS Employees, 2007, page 2)

What is a concern?

A concern is an issue of interest (because of its importance and effect) which is raised informally in order to improve or change a situation.

What is a complaint?

A complaint is an expression of grievance or resentment where the parent is seeking redress or justice.

- the staff member responsible for managing the complaint
- practices or procedures relevant to the complaint
- actions taken, time taken and outcome

Concern, Grievance or Complaint Flowchart

At Kilparrin we support the right of any member of the school community to have issues and concerns addressed.

The usual procedure to be followed in addressing a grievance is, in the first instance, to approach the person with whom you have the grievance, concern or complaint. However, if you feel you are unable to do this, the following is a set of guidelines you may wish to consider.

When raising a concern staff, parents and students are expected to;

- treat each other with respect, courtesy and maintain confidentiality
- raise the concern as soon as possible; provide complete and factual information
- act in good faith to achieve an outcome acceptable to all parties
- have realistic and reasonable expectations about the course of action required to resolve the concern.
